

OUR MISSION IS TO:

- Work as a collective: engaging in continual training, creating new forms of theatrical language and education, and cultivating theatre artists in a wide variety of performance genres through the process, product, and dialogue
- Create new theatrical work from an interdisciplinary perspective and to re-envision the classics for contemporary audiences
- Challenge the traditional roles of theatre makers and audiences
- Provide innovative training to current and aspiring theatre artists
- Create a community that is rooted in contemplative practices in and out of the rehearsal and performance workspaces
- Produce work that is beautiful, challenging, and entertaining for regional, national, and international audiences

CTC is based in New York City, and our artists represent and reside in diverse geographic locations. We meet for training, collaboration, producing, and developing new work. We partner with additional organizations and artists as we exist as a community who share a common desire for successful, challenging, and thoughtful theatrical experiences.
